Cantaloupes Lope Into Market To Help Keep Up Expense Bill

California Strawberries Rare and Higher—Cherries Are Still Firm and Valley Vegetables Are Making Their Presence Felt.

CANTALOUPE has lope into the local market from the faraway Yaqui river market of Mexico. As a reducer of the high cost of living the cantaloupe from the Yaqui country is a dismal failure, but it is a big hit for the cost of high living boys at 20 cents per each on the market, and twice this amount when it is diked up, and served as a swell treat with about two bits worth of cracked ice and two or three silver spoons on the side.

California cantaloupes from the Imperial valley are expected to blow in on market row next week and will sack to the timber of the Yaqui country. Playing the native sons as favorites, the Imperial valley brand of nature's breakfast food beat it from the Imperial country to Los Angeles as soon as they were ripe. But El Paso is the second choice and crate shipments are expected the last of next week and a reduction in price to this three for a quarter mark is anticipated.

California strawberries are as rare as a June day this week, although there are still a few in the market. The spring crop has almost been exhausted and the summer's crop will begin coming in thereby placing the strawberry eaters in the position of the man who has worn his winter underwear to a frazzle, but is afraid of the lightweight brand. The California berries are a bit higher, but have not quite caught up with the bottoms of the boxes, which continue to be high. For box the berries from California are 15 cents this week.

Agave continues to defy the Mexican rebel army and run the blockade to the El Paso market from Mexico. Cherries continue steady at 20 cents, including the pits, which may be used to throw at the cat. Grape fruit, bitter as ever, continue 10 cents to all.

String beans and asparagus from the El Paso valley have routed the California kind and are now ruling the market. String beans are selling for 12 1/2 cents per lb., and asparagus from the valley gardens has reduced the cost of living by the difference between 45 cents per bunch and three bunches for a quarter. Green peas have also made their debut from the irrigated lands below the city and all of the small vegetables are expected to rule the roost after this week.

Eggs are exactly the same, which is both a joke and a fact. Butter remains firm at 25 cents, which is exactly two cents more than the dealers say they have to pay for it on the home. A few spring, pinfeather broilers are coming into the poultry market, but the real old fashioned fryer are still a bit difficult about coming to town. Another month will be needed before they will venture away from their home cote.

Prices are not any higher for food-stuffs this week than they were last, which is something to be thankful for, and in the green pea, asparagus and string bean division there has been a drop. Extra summer squash has dropped with a squashy sound from 10 to 5 cents per pound. The quotations on the local exchange are:

TELLS JURORS NOT TO SHOW UP

money he was asked by assistant district attorney Ford the name called to his attention by Mr. Darrow with that of Lockwood during their meeting at a cafe on November 25. Franklin testified Wednesday that Darrow had shown him the list of names of the ninth McNamara venire with the remark, "that looks better."

The other name was that of A. Kruger, said the witness. Lockwood and Kruger, he said, had been discussed by Darrow and himself. Others on the list who were considered undesirable to the McNamara defense were marked "N. G." said the witness.

Franklin then resumed his story of the negotiations between himself and George N. Lockwood, the prospective juror alleged to have been bribed by Darrow in the indictment upon which he is being tried. In the indictment Lockwood is referred to as a "regularly drawn and qualified juror" in the McNamara case.

CUBAN TROUBLE WELL ORGANIZED

which it is hoped the insurgents retired into the interior.

The opinion is becoming general that the government forces are insufficient to guard the property and cope with the insurgents, who are recruiting rapidly by the voluntary or enforced enlistment of plantation laborers.

Apparently there is small prospect of greatly augmenting the government forces, the only possible reinforcements being 700 volunteers now being organized for active service at Cabañas fortress under Col. Piedra.

Serious Engagement.

A serious engagement is reported at Mayale, near Palma Soriano. The Cuban troops used Gatling guns and the report says, inflicted heavy losses on the insurgents. There were few casualties among the regulars.

The insurgents, under Vicente Anaya, attacked the Confinente plantation, near Guanabo, firing the sugar cane. They threatened to hang the manager if he attempted to stop the spread of the fire. After setting fire to several houses, they departed, carrying off many horses and compelling the laborers to accompany them.

BOY SCOUTS TO GO INTO CAMP MONDAY

Boy Scouts of El Paso will go into camp next week at Mountain Park, N. M., for the annual summer's outing. About 30 lads will make the trip.

Four of the older boys with a cook will depart Saturday morning. Camp will be pitched, in proper terms, but in reality the lads will live in a comfortable house and be unannoyed by "crawly" things. On Monday morning C. H. Brown, boy's secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and the remainder of the scouts will be off for camp.

Buy Your Vacation Needs at Sol I. Berg's

DON'T leave El Paso with the impression that at your destination you can buy as good summer clothing and furnishings as you find at Sol I. Berg's—because you can't. There is no argument whatever about our line of summer clothing and furnishings being the most complete in El Paso and the most attractively priced. Special attention is directed to outing shirts, outing trousers and outing caps.

Trunks, Suit Cases, Traveling Bags

Our trunks and suit cases are the best travelers on earth. This is sufficient argument as to why you should buy here. Then, too, you have the largest and most complete line in El Paso to select from.

This is the one store in El Paso that fills mail orders right and right away. Let us hear from you.
